

Important Note: The following links will take you to the test organization's calendar of national testing dates. Not all tests may be offered at Agoura High School on every date and in some cases AHS's spots may be sold out.

- General Information: SAT I Homepage
- Test Dates: SAT Test Dates
- Sign-Ups: SAT Registration
- Sending Scores: SAT Score Information

Reminder: AHS's school code is 050003.

About the Test:

The new SAT reasoning test consists of 3 sections in which students will be tested - critical reading, mathematics, and writing. All three sections are scored on a scale of 200 to 800, with the writing section consisting of two subscores that take into account the essay and multiple choice parts of this section. Access the SAT reasoning homepage here.

Critical Reading Section

This section will test you on well you understand what you read. It consists of two multiple-choice sections: sentence completion questions and passage-based reading questions

Time	Question Types	Score
70 min.	(two 25-min. sections and one 20-min. section)	Passage-based reading and sentence completion
		200-800

Mathematics Section

The math section consists of a multiple-choice section as well as student-produced response questions in which students will “grid in” the solution. Click the links for more grid-in practice

, as well as information about the SAT

calculator policy

.

Time	Question Types	Score
70 min. (two 25-min. sections and one 20-min. section)	Multiple-choice questions and student-produced responses	200-800

Writing Section

The essay will be the very first part of the SAT®. In 25 minutes, you are expected to present and support your point of view on a specific issue. Also included in the writing section are three sections of multiple-choice questions:

improving sentences

, identifying sentence errors

, and

improving paragraphs

.

Time	Question Types	Score
60 min. (two 25-min. sections and one 10-min. section)	Multiple-choice questions (35 min.) and student-written essay (25 min.)	200-800